

The Chair of the Tenet Healthcare (THC) Governance Committee, Meghan FitzGerald, deserves to be rejected

Ms. Meghan FitzGerald is ultimately responsible for THC shareholders not having the ability to vote on a proposal for an independent Chairman of the Board.

THC could be named to a 2026 Hall of Shame list of companies taking blatant advantage of a new Securities and Exchange Commission policy. THC took advantage of the new Securities and Exchange Commission policy of giving free ride letters in as fast as 2-days to any company that submits a one-sentence excuse for not including a well-established shareholder proposal topic in its 2026 annual meeting proxy.

Such a lame one-sentence excuse would apply even if the excuse would likely be rejected had the SEC not largely abandoned its decades long oversight of company attempts to exclude shareholder proposals. The SEC November 17, 2025 abandonment was done without even abiding by a rule making procedure.

THC made the dubious claim that a mere policy for an independent board chairman would purportedly violate state law because the THC board would purportedly never be able to reverse such a policy once adopted.

Ms. FitzGerald was asked to reconsider the THC free ride letter in a

February 24, 2026 letter. Ms. FitzGerald lacked the decorum to reply.
